The final destinations are the primary turnaround ports for paying crew/passengers. However the paying crew/passengers can also embark and disembark at any of the mentioned ports in the itinerary. Upon reaching each port the paying crew/passengers will have arrange their own travel connections for sign-off/on. We can advise for best travel connections. The easiest travel connections are at the final destination ports of each voyage since the intermediate ports may change due to weather conditions with a short notice.

During these days the paying crew/passengers can remain onboard if they buy a berth on a separate agreement.
